Equalization of Tax Assessments Explained to Representatives of Hempstead Taxing Units

— Hope Star photos.

TOP — This was the scene in the courtroom of Hempstead county courthouse Thursday night as a county-wide meeting of taxing units heard the details of Arkansas' property assessment reform program explained by state officials. Speaking from a microphone in the elevated witness chair at left is Russell Morton, Little Rock, attorney for the Arkansas Assessment Coordination Department. List of his statement was that any taxing unit which fails to show an assessment level of 18% of true value by August 1, 1938, will be penalized in state aid.

Proposes Hiring Outsider to Appraise Property

A proposal to hire an established out-of-state firm to re-appraise real property in Hempstead was taken under advisement in a meeting at the courthouse last night of taxing units from various sections of the county.

Another meeting was called for Thursday, September 3, at which time some decision on the proposal will be made either countywide or by individual school districts.

Two representatives from the Arkansas Department for Tax Coordination discussed various phases of a re-assessment program at length. From this discussion the following facts were established:

1. That between now and August 1, 1938, all counties or school districts must be assessed at 18 per cent valuation on real property.
2. A spot check will be made in each county to determine the percentage of assessments.
3. That counties or districts not measuring up to the 18% figure will not receive its full share of state tax money.
4. That each school district stands alone — the district meeting the 18% requirement will get its full share. Money will be withheld from the districts not meeting the requirement.
5. A uniformity of procedure by

Fr. Smith to Hike Water Rates

MORT SMITH, M. A. water study committee yesterday proposed that city water rates be raised 40 per cent to provide $300,000 a year for the next 16 years for improvement of the town's inadequate water system.

W. R. Rowley, a representative of a Tulsa consulting engineering firm, City Commissioner Hugh Brewer and Water Superintendent John Luce, said such an increase would enable the city to issue bonds totaling $3,000,000.

The water study group took no action but scheduled another meeting for Sept. 10.

Notice to Star Subscribers --- Carrier Subscription Price Will Be 30c Per Week Beginning Monday, Sept. 2

Effective Monday, September 2, the carrier-delivered price of Hope Star will advance from 25 to 30c per week to the carriers.

One cent of the five-cent increase will go to the carriers. The increase applies to Hope and neighboring towns where The Star is delivered by carrier. Subscribers living in the carrier-delivered zone who wish to pay annually at the office may do so, but the rate is increased from $19 to $15.00. City annuals now on our books will, of course, be honored at the old rate until they expire.

The increase also applies to mail subscriptions outside the Hope trade area. The new direct-mail rates are: Year $15.00; six months $7.50; three months $3.75; one month $1.00.

There will be no change in local zone mail rates — Hempstead and adjacent counties. These rates were increased January 1, 1937, and will continue at their present level.

This is the first subscription rate change for city subscribers in six years (Sept. 3, 1931). Against this 20% rate increase now, we have had the following cost increases over the past six years: Newsprint, up from $110 a ton to $185, a rise of 68%; mechanical parts and supplies, up 60.4% — for instance, a linotype matrix that cost in 1931 now is $22.

Asserts Only Faubus Can Save Leggett

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Only a commutation of sentence by Gov. Orval Faubus can save slayer Emmett Earl Leggett from electrocution, the Arkansas Democrat said it learned today from a "high legal authority."

The source, who declined to be identified, said:

"It doesn't make any difference how many psychiatrists come in and find him insane, it will take a jury to undo what one jury already had found."

A maneuver by the 20-year-old killed's attorney to have Leggett plead insane to postpone hearing and obtain another sanity hearing is bound to fail, the legal authority said, because Leggett has been adjudged sane in the Joe King murder case and subsequent finding can set that verdict aside.

There are two procedures for saving Leggett from the chair, the legal authority said: Faubus could commute the sentence or Supt. Lee Henslee, of the state penitentiary, could impel a Jefferson County jury to hold a sanity hearing for Leggett.

"Even in this case," the legal authority said, "the governor would have to commute the sentence to life so that Leggett could be sent to the State Hospital."

Leggett was convicted of stran-

Water Creek Church Plans Revival

60 Attend Timber Meet at Ellis Farm

Some 60 lumber producers and handlers observed and heard the management story of the natural seeded old field and virgin pine on the B. J. Ellis farm Thursday morning at a meeting arranged by county agent Oliver L. Adams.

Around 40,000 bushels of pine cones from the present large crop will be secured this fall by the Arkansas State Forestry Commission if possible for planting in nurseries to produce pine seedlings for setting on Arkansas timber lands stated District Forester Buster Denton. Mr. Denton said that the harvest would get underway in about two weeks and that special care was necessary to secure the quality planting seed. Persons or groups desiring to harvest seed should advise with a Forestry Commission representative before undertaking harvesting. About three bushels of cones are necessary to yield one pound of Loblolly pine seed consisting of around 25,000 seeds.

Areas of natural reproduction in the Ellis farm pine was observed in a discussion led by F. M. Mogdo, Associate Professor of Forestry at the University of Arkansas. The management of hardwood undergrowth through cutting and poisoning was of particular interest to the group. The securing of proper stand of young pine through harvesting for pulpwood was discussed by John Ellis, Forester with International Paper Company.

An 8-acre block of virgin land pine that had marketed an average of $68.00 per acre for each of the last twenty years and was more than $300 in merchantable lumber on the land was the setting for a tips on tree farming led by Dean R. Wallace, Extension Forestry Products Marketing Specialist. Fire control, thinning, measuring, restocking, and marketing were topics discussed.

Services available to the producers of timber in Hempstead county were enumerated. Insects of pine trees and their method of control was demonstrated.

Thurmond Lasts 24 Hours — Civil Rights Passes

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress today sent to President Eisenhower the first major civil rights legislation aimed at elevating the status of the American Negro since the reconstruction era after the Civil War.

Republican congressional leaders predicted he would sign it into law promptly.

The historic bill designed chiefly to protect the voting rights of Negroes was finally enacted by Congress at 11:12 p. m. EDT Thursday when the Senate voted passage 80 to 15 at the climax of a dramatic marathon session.

In the last hours, a lone diehard southerner — one-time States Rights presidential candidate Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S. C.) — put a 24-hour and 16-minute filibuster record registering the bitter end opposition of the South to the bill.

but Thurmond, a born 54-year-old lawyer and farmer, could not get anyone to support his filibuster. And shortly after he finished his exhausting around-the-clock speech the Senate took the vote.

Thurmond and 14 Southern Democratic colleagues spoke the "nay" as the Senate roll was called. The affirmative votes that passed the bill were registered by a bipartisan coalition of 37 Republicans and 23 northern and western Democrats.

The bill, the first federal legislation of its kind in 82 years, was a compromise with a considerably stronger measure proposed by the Eisenhower administration. However, the President was reported to be pleased with the result.

The chief feature of the legislation permits federal judges to issue injunctions to prevent voting abuses. It also establishes a civil rights commission and a new civil rights division in the Justice Department.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said, if enforced, the law would mean that now Negroes in the South particularly would vote members of their race to city councils, state legislatures and to Congress.

Foreign Aid Bill Is Sent to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia was reported today to have fired at least four long-range missiles since June and to have tested many more of shorter range over a longer time.

Moscow withheld until last week any announcement of its claimed successful test of an intercontinental missile. But bits and pieces of the information had been coming into Washington from intelligence sources since shortly after the test operations started.

Apparently the Kremlin's announcement on Monday was timed to make it a contribution to the fierce new Soviet diplomatic offensive against the West. But only the timing was a real surprise here — and presumably in Allied capitals.

Since the Russian announcement there have been solidly backed reports here that the U. S. Army believes it has ready for production a proven counterweapon — an American missile of short-range which could hit key Soviet areas from advance bases.

And there is every evidence of high-level doubt here that the Russians actually have a production model of a 5,000-mile missile ready for operational use. Officials stress the difference between an experimental prototype and an atomic warhead weapon ready for use.

Some Sections Get Cool Air

By United Press

Cloudy skies and occasional rain occurred today in a widespread area of cool air stretching from Montana east to New England.

Weathermen said the pattern was unusual since a large region of below normal temperatures generally is accompanied by fair to partly cloudy skies.

Rain or drizzle was reported Wednesday night and early today from Montana across the Dakotas, the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes. Only New England escaped the precipitation.

Forecasters said fair weather to Guy will be confined to the West Coast. Elsewhere, it will be cloudy with scattered showers in the Plateau, the Rockies, the Plains States, the Ohio Valley, Upper New York state and the Gulf Coast.

Congress Rips Through Measures in Effort to Adjourn Later Today

State Integration Fate Up to an Outside Judge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A federal judge new to this area was scheduled to make a decision late today which could determine whether racial integration will be started here next week.

The Little Rock School Board was left with conflicting orders from federal and state courts after action yesterday by Pulaski Chancery Court.

Pulaski Chancery Court Murray O. Reed's temporary injunction of yesterday, which ordered the Little Rock School Board not to integrate white and Negro students next week, could be overturned if U. S. District Court here grants an injunction to prevent the plaintiffs in the chancery suit from "interfering" with the integration plan previously ordered by federal courts.

Reed said that if Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N. C., who temporarily is filling the vacant Eastern Arkansas District bench, confirms the earlier federal court order, "I think I would set a hearing and dissolve this order." He referred to the order he issued yesterday.

Attorneys for the Little Rock School District asked for the federal injunction and Davies has set a hearing on their petition for 3:30 p. m. today.

Some kind of effort to resolve the seething controversy over integration at Little Rock may be taken this afternoon when the state Sovereignty Commission holds its first meeting.

The commission will meet in the reception room of Gov. Orval Faubus, its ex-officio chairman. Main item on the agenda will be discussion of the plan for racial mixing at Little Rock high schools.

A 1957 legislative act created the commission which is pro-segregationist in nature.

North Little Rock also plans to integrate high-school classes when the full term begins there Sep. 9 and so far no legal steps have been taken to prevent mixing of the races.

Seven Negroes have enrolled at North Little Rock's previously all-white high school. Two others registered but one failed to qualify because he lacked enough credits and one withdrew after enrolling.

The only organized resistance to integration plans at North Little Rock was the formation of a mothers' group similar to the segregation-minded Mothers League of Central High School at Little Rock.

However, Arnis Guthridge, a Little Rock attorney and segregationist spokesman, said yesterday that legal opposition to racial mixing would be carried to North Little Rock.

Guthridge gave an emphatic "yes" when asked whether any litigation challenging North Little Rock's integration program was planned. But he declined to go into details.

He did say that a suit would be filed "soon."

Port Smith and Van Buren have plans to start racial integration of school children next week.

Van Buren, which is under federal court order to desegregate, opened grades 9-12 to Negroes but school officials have indicated they will continue offering transportation and tuition to Negro high school students who want to attend the Fort Smith Negro high school.

Three Die in Bald Knob Auto Wreck

BALD KNOB, Ark. (AP) — A head-on collision of two automobiles on U. S. Highway 64 near Bald Knob last night killed three persons and seriously injured three others.

William Isaac Scott, 56, and his 15-year-old daughter Willie Mae Scott, both of McClelland, died instantly in the crash about five miles east of here. Fred Savage, 46, of North Little Rock, died shortly afterward at a Search hospital.

Hospitalized with serious injuries at Search were two other Scott children, 14-year-old William Edward and Sarah Ann 41, and James Harvey Benson, 40, of McClelland.

State Trooper E. L. Flemming said Savage was driving the car in which the Scotts were passengers and Benson was driving alone in the other car.

Columbus to Open Schools Sept. 9

The Columbus Negro school will officially open September 9 as announced by Superintendent E. R. Brown.

Principal R. L. Wiley of the Columbus Training school and S. W. Williamson of the Columbus professional work shop with all colored teachers in the district which is to be held in the Columbus Training School September 4 and 5.

All teachers in the school at Columbus will report at the school on September 6, 9 a. m. for the purpose of arranging instructional materials, preparing for the enrollment of students and perfecting a calendar of school activities for the year.

All parents are requested to enroll all children who plan to attend school here this year on September 9. This is important in making definite instructional plans.

Army Has an Answer to Red Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army reportedly believes it has a proven answer to Russia's claimed intercontinental missile — an American missile, ready for production, that could hit key Soviet areas from advance bases.

The Army's proposed counter-weapon is the Jupiter, an intermediate range ballistic missile which soared 1,500 miles over the Atlantic Tuesday in a test flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Secretary of the Army Brucker labeled the Jupiter "a spectacular success."

It is understood that only the Pentagon's secrecy lid on missile developments prevents the Army from saying flatly that the Jupiter could be in production within 30 days.

Brucker said in Florida yesterday that the Soviet announcement last Monday of a successful

2 Must Money Measures Are Quickly Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the last major roadblock swept aside in the Senate, Congress drove for probable adjournment of its 1937 session today.

Senate passage into it night of an historic civil rights bill broke the legislative log jam, putting the go-home rush in high gear.

Today, the Senate found itself with no major legislation hanging fire before the final gavel. In the House, a compromise foreign aid bill and another designed to protect FBI files were expected to get quick approval.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called that body back to work at 9 a. m. today — The House arranged to meet at 10 a. m.

Leaders predicted Congress — if it really tried could complete its work in time to quill and go home by mid-afternoon, ending an eight-month session that began Jan. 3.

The Senate passed the civil rights bill, designed to protect the voting rights of Negroes, on a 90-15 roll call vote. Passage came near the end of a marathon 30-hour session, in which Sen. Thurmond (D-S. C.) waged a record one-man filibuster against it.

Thurmond spoke for 24 hours and 16 minutes, and said "I feel fine" when he said he wished a four-year record of 22 hours and 26 minutes, held by Sen. Morse (D-Ore.).

The civil rights measure represented a victory for the Eisenhower administration, although it had been shown of some features the President had requested.

It remained to be seen whether Eisenhower now would soften his appraisal of the 1937 legislative record of the Democratic-controlled Congress. He told an Aug. 29 news conference viewed that record as a disappointing one.

Senate approval sent the compromise civil rights measure to Eisenhower.

Then with only minutes of debate on such, the Senate passed these bills:

NEW YORK (UP) — Harold E. Stassen returned from London today optimistic about the outcome of the five-nation disarmament talks.

"We actually are closer together now than at any time in the past 12 years," Stassen said.

Stassen, chief U. S. delegate to the London disarmament conference, said the four Western powers, Great Britain, France, Canada and the United States, now are "waiting for a response" from the Soviet Union on the 11-point disarmament proposal proposed by Stassen to the conference Thursday.

Stassen said he believed the Soviet delegate, Valerian A. Zorin, would forward the Western proposal to Moscow despite Zorin's flat rejection of the plan Thursday.

Stassen conceded that Zorin's remarks, although officially dubbed "preliminary," posed serious obstacles to any kind of agreement.

But Stassen described the general agreement among the Western powers on the disarmament proposal as "a very signal situation." He pointed out that informal discussions with other countries not represented in the United Nations disarmament subcommittee

There have been no known successful U. S. tests of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

The United States has an advantage in land bases—its owned plus those in friendly hands around the world. A missile launched from Communist territory would have to travel thousands of miles to reach the United States.

TRUCK DUMP—Dump trucks are a common transportation aid, but they've turned things around in Michigan City, Ind., where this "truck dumper" has been installed. For ease of unloading, huge trailer trucks are driven onto the steel platform, which is then raised like the span of a drawbridge, spilling the cargoes of grain into a conveyor in a pit below the device. The innovation is part of the new Cargill Incorporated grain elevator from which grain is shipped to Chicago.

taxing units is necessary for any reassessment program so that a standard may be established on which to base future assessments.

Each county or district can use its own method to re-appraise: (a) do it yourself; (b) hire special individual deputies; (c) or hire a professional appraising firm.

The purpose of last night's meeting, called by Judge U. G. Garrett, was to decide what this county wants to do. Following the discussion individual taxing units were asked to contact their aldermen and be prepared to vote for or against hiring an outside appraiser at the September 5 meeting. If the vote is favorable the County Judge will be petitioned on the matter and a hearing will be set giving anyone who wants to be heard a chance.

The group last night fell into three categories — those who wanted to sit back and wait and see how much, if any, tax money would be withheld and those who wanted to go ahead with some sort of reapportioning program and try to avoid losing anything and those who just listened and didn't commit themselves in any manner.

Russell Morlon and Glen Williams of the Tax Coordination Department, stressed to the group that the state had reached the tax saturation point and that any new revenue for schools and counties must come from the local level.

They said that professional appraisers had been hired in 11 Arkansas Counties and these counties represented 35 per cent of the total assessment in Arkansas. They emphasized these 11 counties and others who will meet the 18 per cent assessment deadline are not going to sit back and let their money go to counties via state taxes, who do not have their property assessed properly. Both men highly recommended outside appraisers as the best way to proceed.

Miss Carolyn Prescott Was Wednesday Bride

The McCaskill Methodist church was the scene Wednesday night of the wedding of Miss Carolyn Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Prescott of McCaskill, and James MacFadyen, son of Mrs. Mildred MacFadyen of Angola, Ind. The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Cagle Fair of Pine Bluff, a former McCaskill pastor, in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully decorated in green and white with tall baskets of white gladioli and pots of ferns backed by three groups of tall white sevenfold candelabra. The chancel railing was covered with green ivy. Selections of nuptial preludes were played on the piano by Mrs. Arthur Wimmell who included Liszt's "Liebestraum," Rubinstein's "Romance" and Nevin's "Venezian Love Song" in the numbers. John Allen Ross sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the service and Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony. The traditional Lohengrin "Bridal Chorus" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used for the processional and recessional.

The lovely bride, wearing a gown of white lace over satin, came down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride's dress of ballerina length was fashioned in a princess style completely lined with white satin. The finger-tip veil was held in place with sequin ornaments and the bride's bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Proceeding the bride down the aisle was her maid of honor and college classmate, Miss Martha Ann Sutton, who wore a gold colored ballerina dress with matching bandeau in her hair. She carried a nosegay of bronze carnations.

Miss Judy Ann Scott of McCaskill and Miss Betty Sue Blackman, a cousin of the bride from Camden, were the candle-lighters. They wore yellow organdy dresses and wrist corsages of yellow carnations.

The groom's best man was his brother, David and the ushers were the bride's brothers, Leon and John Denton Prescott.

The bride's mother wore a dusty pink lace dress with a silver gray velvet hat and the groom's mother wore navy with white accessories.

For her traveling ensemble the bride chose a brown shantung dress with beige accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Miss Grecia Ann Wortham presided at the punch bowl and Miss Margaret Ann Bittick was in charge of the wedding cake.

Both wore pink dresses. Miss Jean Ball of Nashville was in charge of the guest book.

The young couple left for Gainesville, Fla., where they will both be students at the University of Florida. The bride, who is a native of McCaskill, and graduate of Blewett High School, has attended Henderson Teachers College at Arkadelphia for the past three years and will take her senior year at the University of Florida.

The bridegroom, who is a native of Indiana, lived for a time in North Little Rock. He is a veteran of the U. S. Army and saw service in Korea. He has had one year at Ouachita College and will complete his civil engineering course at the University of Florida.

Out of town guests included the following: the groom's mother Mrs. Donald MacFadyen and her children, David, Kathryn and Beth of Angola, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Essex, Mrs. Don W. Essex and three children, Keith, Emily and Sara Jo, all of Stuttgart, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Farley and family of Big Springs, Tex.; Mrs. Alice Denton, of Ector, Tex.; Mrs. O. T. Brookwood Parent-Teacher Meets
The Brookwood Parent-Teacher Executive Committee met in the home of Mrs. Arch Wylie, Thursday, August 29th, to complete plans for 1957-58 P. T. A. year.

Mrs. Will Ed Waller, President distributed the Committee literature and led the general discussion by all members.

The Brookwood P. T. A. will support the schools in their effort to provide education in human relations, home and family life. We ask that every parent join the P. T. A. the day their child is enrolled in school. Through a large active membership the P. T. A. can transform family and community concern, aspirations for children and youth into constructive action for their welfare.

Coming and Going
Mrs. D. B. Russell Jr., and son Randy of Dallas will arrive today to spend Labor day weekend in Hope. Randy will remain for a two weeks visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Harrell and Mrs. Lois Russell.

SEEING IS BELIEVING—Lady Linda, a free-wheeling Guernsey cow, churns along a Little Rock, Ark., sidewalk on her homemade roller skates. Lady Linda's owner, Doc (Peg) Ford, of North Little Rock, has spent 18 months teaching her to skate. Doc, who gets around pretty well himself on just one leg, says Lady Linda really enjoys her unusual means of locomotion.

Can Unwed Mother Sold a Nice Boy?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm crazy about a guy but his mother objects to me because I have a child born out of wedlock. Isn't everyone entitled to one mistake in a lifetime? Why should she hold this against me?

How can I get a nice guy and keep him?

TERRY
Dear Terry: The way to win a nice boy is to be a nice girl! The question of how many mistakes we are allowed in a lifetime is up to the almighty — not me. Some folks pay years of grief and remorse for one effort; others can make them ad infinitum and suffer no apparent consequences.

By showing the boy and his mother that you are making a sincere effort to live a good life, you will win their respect.

Mrs. D. B. Russell Jr., and son Randy of Dallas will arrive today to spend Labor day weekend in Hope. Randy will remain for a two weeks visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Harrell and Mrs. Lois Russell.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have two children, a daughter who lives in the same town we do, and a son whose home is a thousand miles away. He brings his family to see us twice a year, and sometimes their little boys spend a month with us in the summer. We see our daughter's children every day, keep them weekends and holidays. Yet when my son's youngsters are here, she stews herself into a fever because her children aren't staying with us, too. She worked herself into such a state she had to see a doctor, who told her she was working too hard!

LELANIE
Dear Lelanie: This sort of jealousy between brother and sister isn't uncommon. Your daughter is a possessive neurotic. Do your duty as it presents itself, ignoring your daughter's tantrums. If her doctor will give her sympathy, and she's willing to pay for it, let them work on the problem. Enjoy the grandchildren while you can; they grow up awfully fast.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married for some years and haven't been very happy because of a constant feeling that there's someone else. What should I do about it?

E. A.
Dear E. A.: Stop reading love stories and turn to the Bible, especially Hebrews XI, 1.

Dear Dorothy Dix: After Ronny and I had dated for two years, he got himself another girl. He sees her on Sunday, and calls on me during the week. He tells our friends he loves me, but this sure doesn't look like it.

WORRIED
Dear Worried: I hope you have sense enough to date someone else on Sunday, too. Be sure there's a two-way stretch in this elastic arrangement.

Oklahoman Faces Horse Stealing Count
TULSA, OKLA. (AP) — A hearing to decide if a Tulsa man should be returned to Arkansas to face a charge of stealing $8,000 worth of registered quarter horses yesterday was delayed until Sept. 5.

A fugitive warrant from Batesville, Ark., alleged that Ed Leal, a Tulsa construction worker, took 18 horses and colts from a pasture belong to George Luster of near Batesville.

League, who has been free with out bond, contended the horses belonged to him and he was only keeping them in Luster's pasture.

Board Postpones Locating School
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The suspense over where the first vocational-technical school will be located in Arkansas has been extended to Sept. 9.

The state board of education planned to select the site of the first of six schools yesterday, but declined to vote on the matter when three of the board members were absent.

Education commissioner Arch Ford said the board had intended to vote in either Pine Bluff, Magnolia or Camden for the school, despite a legislative council resolution that the first school be located in Little Rock.

But the board contends that the final selection is up to them. Ford said that a quorum was present at the meeting, but the board members did not want to

Charges Syria Smuggling Arms to Others

By MURRAY BROWN

United Press Staff Correspondent
An authoritative Western source said today Syria is smuggling arms to subversive elements in pro-Western Jordan and Lebanon.

"We have definite proof of this," the source said in Istanbul.

The statement came even while U.S. Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson prepared to leave Ankara for Beirut to confer with Lebanese officials on the Syrian crisis.

Henderson, who was urgently dispatched to the Middle East last weekend, said his talks with Turkish leaders and the rulers of pro-Western Jordan and Iraq were "extremely helpful."

While in Beirut, Henderson planned to meet also with other top U.S. diplomats, including members of the embassy staff in Damascus.

Henderson has refused to enter into speculation on his hurry-up mission to the Middle East. It was obvious however, that the United States and its pro-Western Middle East friends were searching for ways to combat Syria's slow drift toward the Soviet orbit.

One Istanbul source said the Syrians were concentrating on stirring up dissatisfied elements among Jordanian army officers. King Hussein already has accused Syria of helping to foment the abortive leftist plot against him last spring.

olebanon, the source said, the Syrians are trying to whip up the Moslem population against Christians.

In London, British government sources said Russia already has poured hundreds of tanks and scores of planes into Syria. A large number of Soviet "technicians" also are pouring in, stirring fears the Syrians may eventually try aggression.

Both Moscow and Peking, meantime, continued their propaganda campaign against United States "meddling" in the Middle East.

The Soviet government, newspaper Izvestia said Henderson was sent into the Middle East in an attempt to stir strife among the nations there. It said Henderson's mission coincided with the climax of an "unruly American campaign" against the people of Syria.

The Peking People's Daily, of fiftal mouthpiece of the Red Chinese regime, said "American intrigues" in the Middle East are not aimed at Syria alone "but at all nationalist forces."

It said the Arab peoples "should unite closely for a common front against foreign aggression to smash the intrigues."

ASC Adds 20 New Faculty Members
JONESBORO (UP) — Dr. Carl Rong, president of Arkansas State College, announced today that the school had employed 20 new faculty members for the fall term.

He said it was the largest number hired at one time in many years, and pointed out it was made possible by increased appropriations by the state Legislature.

Dr. Rong said the new teachers were needed to keep pace with the ever-increasing enrollment, which is expected to top 2,000 this fall.

Only six faculty members quit, and Dr. Rong said most of them were studying for higher degrees. He said also that was the smallest number to leave the faculty in several years.

NEW YORK (AP) — A former Little Rock woman and her partner today counted $20,000 in winnings on the CBS Television quiz program, Name That Tune.

Mrs. Kay Harris Connell Korov, sky of New York, whose mother lives at Arkadelphia, and Dr. Roger Cole of Cambridge, England, named five songs about the sea last night. The pair will try for the $25,000 grand prize next Tuesday night.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: Sarah Casement has volunteered to assist the widow of Grant Melville as the painter's biography. Sarah believes that someone pushed Melville through his studio window, causing him to fall to his death, but no one believes her. Among other applicants for the biography job is Tom Gillespie, who admits being in the vicinity of the studio when Melville came to his death.

CHAPTER V
Gillespie stopped smiling. The hard-bitten lines in his face came back. He took a step nearer to her, the dark eyes probing hers. He said in a low voice, "Who are you, Miss Casement? What are you in this house for?"

"There was no threat in him. He was gentle, as though she were in trouble and he sympathized with her. . . . Sarah had an absurd impulse to tell him the truth. Before she could say anything they were interrupted. The door at the far end of the room opened and Mrs. Melville came rustling toward them talking volubly.

"I do hope I haven't kept you too long. I'm so sorry, dreadfully sorry. I really am. . . . I wish I could have two writers, but there — that wouldn't do, would it?"

Gillespie had the job nailed. Mrs. Melville promised to send her a copy of the book when it was finished and Sarah said that would be lovely and left the house, hadn't expected to get the job, but for a while it had seemed as though she might and now she was dejected and cast down. The old man of the sea was still on her shoulders. She had learned little or nothing of importance, hadn't even been able to get a look at the studio and find out whether there was a door in the right wall. She might almost as well have stayed at home.

"Miss Casement —"
Gillespie caught up with her at the bottom of the brownstone steps outside and stood on the pavement looking at her appraisingly, as though something about her continued to puzzle him.

Sarah said, "Yes," coolly, and he said, measuring his words, producing them carefully, "I don't want to interfere in what isn't my business but if there's any way in which I can help you — all be going through all Grant Melville's stuff, his papers, sketches, notes — I'll be glad to do it."

It was then, while he was talking, that it happened.

A light voice came sailing through space and Sarah's name was called. "Sarah. . . . Yoo-hoo, Sarah. . . ."

Zita Warren shouldn't have been home, she wasn't to have come back for another couple of weeks. It was Zita who was hailing her from the window of her apartment high up on the other side of the street, having vigorously and leaning out. "Wait, Sarah, I'm coming down," she shouted, and the window closed and Zita disappeared.

Sarah was aware of Gillespie's eyes on her keen eyes, with a quick brain behind them. Zita's windows were directly across from Grant Melville's studio and Zita was her friend. Her one desire as to get away from him. She said, "Goodbye Mr. Gillespie — congratulations on the job," and started for the opposite curb through a gap in the traffic.

The two girls met in the lobby of the Seldon Arms. Zita had a cab waiting. She had cut her trip short, had left the ship at Rio and flown home because her mother was ill. She was on her way over to New Jersey to see her and as in a rush.

She got into the cab and drove off and Sarah started to walk north through the rain. Gillespie was nowhere in sight. When she went past the drugstore on the northwest corner of Tenth St. and University Place, Mr. Demier, the man with the tired hat, was in the doorway lighting a cigarette from a fresh pack.

Later that day, according to her brother-in-law and eventually the police, Zita Warren tried to commit what was nothing less than suicide.

When Sarah reached the Seldon Arms at five minutes of 7 that evening there was a crowd around the entrance and an ambulance was just driving down the street, given waiting. She didn't at once know that Zita was in the ambulance but she was frightened. A woman enlightened her. The woman said to someone else, "Name of Warren, lives on the fourth floor," and the street whirled. An arm came around Sarah steadily and she was through the crowd and in a chair in the lobby. The man who put her there and who was standing over her was Gillespie.

Zita wasn't dead. She had been in some sort of an accident and had been taken to the hospital. Gillespie had been in the house across the street with Mrs. Melville for a consultation and was leaving when the ambulance arrived. He had had a word with the intern.

The elevator came down at that point and Zita's brother-in-law, Andy Middleton, got out of it. He came over to them Zita had a concussion and some smashed ribs. The doctor couldn't say how bad it was likely to be until she had been examined. Andy was shaken and scared — and furious. It was Zita's own fault. Nobody else was to blame.

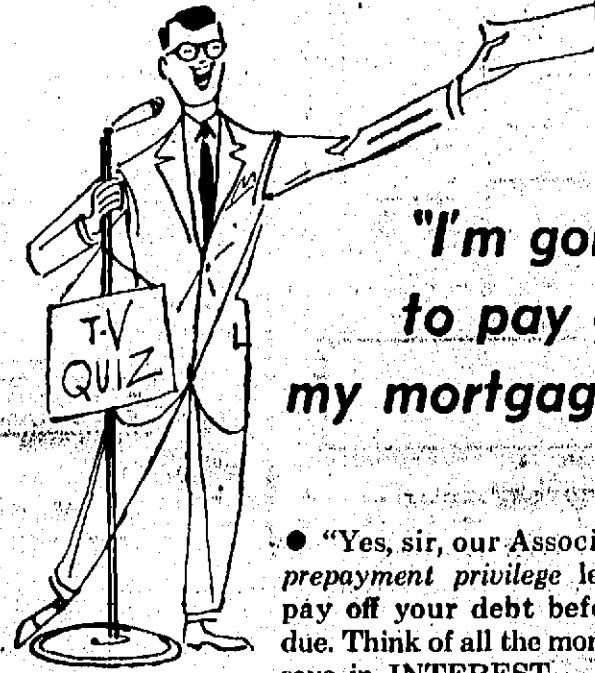

"She ought to be confined," he said that without looking where she was going she had walked into the path of a 10-ton truck coming along at a fast clip. "If she wants to kill herself I wish she'd do it when she wasn't with me."

There have been no known successful U. S. tests of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

The United States has an advantage in land bases—its owned plus those in friendly hands around the world. A missile launched from Communist territory would have to travel thousands of miles to reach the United States.

TRUCK DUMP—Dump trucks are a common transportation aid, but they've turned things around in Michigan City, Ind., where this "truck dumper" has been installed. For ease of unloading, huge trailer trucks are driven onto the steel platform, which is then raised like the span of a drawbridge, spilling the cargoes of grain into a conveyor in a pit below the device. The innovation is part of the new Cargill Incorporated grain elevator from which grain is shipped to Chicago.

taxing units is necessary for any reassessment program so that a standard may be established on which to base future assessments.

6. Each county or district can use its own method to re-appraise: (a) do it yourself, (b) hire special individual deputies, (c) or hire a professional appraising firm.

The purpose of last night's meeting, called by Judge U. G. Garrett, was to decide what this county wants to do. Following the discussion individual taxing units were asked to contact their aldermen and be prepared to vote for or against hiring an outside appraiser at the September 5 meeting. If the vote is favorable the County Judge will be petitioned on the matter and a hearing will be set, giving anyone who wants to be heard a chance.

The group last night fell into three categories — those who wanted to sit back and wait and see how much, if any, tax money would be withheld and those who wanted to go ahead with some sort of reappraising program and try to avoid losing anything and those who just listened and didn't commit themselves in any manner.

Russell Morton and Glen Williams of the Tax Coordination Department, stressed to the group that the state had reached the tax saturation point and that any new revenue for schools and counties must come from the local level.

They said that professional appraisers had been hired in 14 Arkansas counties and these counties represented 35 per cent of the total assessment in Arkansas. They emphasized these 14 counties and others who will meet the 18 per cent assessment deadline are not going to sit back and let their money go to counties via state taxes, who do not have their property assessed properly. Both men highly recommended outside appraisers as the best way to proceed.

Miss Carolyn Prescott Was Wednesday Bride
The McCaskill Methodist church was the scene Wednesday night of the wedding of Miss Carolyn Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Prescott of McCaskill, and James MacFadyen, son of Mrs. Mildred MacFadyen and the late Donald MacFadyen, of Angola, Ind.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Cagle Fair of Pine Bluff, a former McCaskill pastor, in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully decorated in green and white with tall baskets of white gladioli and pots of ferns backed by three groups of tall white sevenfold candelabra. The chancel railing was covered with green ivy. Selections of nuptial preludes were played on the piano by Mrs. Arthur Wimmell who included Liszt's "Liebestraum," Rubinstein's "Romance" and Nevin's "Venetian Love Song" in the numbers. John Allen Ross sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the service and Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony. The traditional Lohengrin "Bridal Chorus" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used for the processional and recessional.

The lovely bride, wearing a gown of white lace over satin, came down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride's dress of ballerina length was fashioned in a princess style completely lined with white satin. The finger-ring veil was held in place with sequin ornaments and the bride's bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was her maid of honor and college classmate, Miss Martha Ann Sutton, who wore a gold colored ballerina dress with matching bandeau in her hair. She carried a nosegay of bronze carnations.

Miss Judy Ann Scott of McCaskill and Miss Betty Sue Blackman, a cousin of the bride from Camden, were the candlelighters. They wore yellow organdy dresses and wrist corsages of yellow carnations.

The groom's best man was his brother, David and the ushers were the bride's brothers, Leon and John Denton Prescott.

The bride's mother wore a dusty pink lace dress with a silver gray velvet hat and the groom's mother wore navy with white accessories.

For her traveling ensemble the bride chose a brown, shantung dress with beige accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Miss Grecia Ann Wortham presided at the punch bowl and Miss Margaret Ann Bittick was in charge of the wedding cake. Both wore pink dresses. Miss Jean Ball of Nashville was in charge of the guest book.

The young couple left for Gainesville, Fla., where they will both be students at the University of Florida. The bride, who is a native of McCaskill, and graduate of Blewett High School, has attended Henderson Teachers College at Arkadelphia for the past three years and will take her senior year at the University of Florida.

The bridegroom, who is a native of Indiana, lived for a time in North Little Rock. He is a veteran of the U. S. Army and saw service in Korea. He has had one year at Ouachita College and will complete his civil engineering course at the University of Florida.

Out of town guests included the following: the groom's mother Mrs. Donald MacFadyen and her children, David, Kathryn and Beth of Angola, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Essex, Mrs. Don W. Essex and three children, Keith, Emily and Sara Jo, all of Stuttgart, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Farley and family of Big Springs, Tex.; Mrs. Alice Denton, of Eater, Tex.; Mrs. O. T. Blackman and daughter of Camden; Mrs. Mattie Ball and daughter, Jean of Nashville; Miss Janet Bonnette of Dierks, Clyde Oxford of Huntsville.

Mrs. Bertie Norwood and Mrs. Chloa City of Ozan; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Burke and Miss Sandra Burke of DeAnn; Mrs. Louis Sutton, Mrs. Lily Davis, Mrs. J. O. Taylor and son John Harold, Mrs. Olene Spears, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wylie and children, Miss Emily Elder, Huey Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roberts, all of Hope.

Brookwood Parent-Teacher Meets
The Brookwood Parent-Teacher Executive Committee met in the home of Mrs. Arch Wylie, Thursday, August 29th, to complete plans for 1957-58 P. T. A. year.

Mrs. Will Ed Waller, President distributed the Committee literature and led the general discussion by all members.

The Brookwood P. T. A. will support the schools in their effort to provide education in human relations, home and family life.

We ask that every parent join the P. T. A. the day their child is enrolled in school. Through the P. T. A. can transform family and community concern, aspirations for children and youth into constructive action for their welfare.

Coming and Going
Mrs. D. B. Russell Jr., and son Randy of Dallas will arrive today to spend Labor day weekend in Hope. Randy will remain for a two weeks visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Harrell and Mrs. Lois Russell.

SEEMING IS BELIEVING—Lady Linda, a free-wheeling Guernsey cow, churns along a Little Rock, Ark., sidewalk on her homemade roller skates. Lady Linda's owner, Doc (Peg) Ford, of North Little Rock, has spent 18 months teaching her to skate. Doc, who gets around pretty well himself on just one leg, says Lady Linda really enjoys her unusual means of locomotion.

DOROTHY DIX

Can Unwed Mother Sold a Nice Boy?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm crazy about a guy but his mother objects to me because I have a child born out of wedlock. Isn't everyone entitled to one mistake in a lifetime? Why should she hold this against me?

How can I get a nice guy and keep him?

TERRY
Dear Terry: The way to win a nice boy is to be a nice girl. The question of how many mistakes we are allowed in a lifetime is up to the almighty — not me. Some folks pay years of grief and remorse for one error; others can make them ad infinitum and suffer no apparent consequences.

By showing the boy and his mother that you are making a sincere effort to live a good life, you will win their respect.

Mrs. D. B. Russell Jr., and son Randy of Dallas will arrive today to spend Labor day weekend in Hope. Randy will remain for a two weeks visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Harrell and Mrs. Lois Russell.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have two children, a daughter who lives in the same town we do, and a son whose home is a thousand miles away. He brings his family to see us twice a year, and sometimes their little boys spend a month with us in the summer. We see our daughter's children every day, keep them weekends and holidays. Yet when my son's youngsters are here, she stays herself into a fever because her children aren't staying with us, too. She worked herself into such a state she had to see a doctor, who told her she was working too hard!

Dear Lelanie: This sort of jealousy between brother and sister isn't uncommon. Your daughter is a possessive neurotic. Do your duty as it presents itself, ignoring your daughter's tantrums. If her doctor will give her sympathy, and she's willing to pay for it, let them work on the problem. Enjoy the grandchildren while you can; they grow up awfully fast.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married for some years and haven't been very happy because of a constant feeling that there's someone else. What should I do about it?

E. A.
Dear E. A.: Stop reading love stories and turn to the Bible, especially Hebrews XI, 1.

Dear Dorothy Dix: After Ronny and I had dated for two years, he got himself another girl. He sees her on Sunday, and calls on me during the week. He tells our friends he loves me, but this sure doesn't look like it.

WORRIED
Dear Worried: I hope you have sense enough to date someone else on Sunday, too. Be sure there's a two-way stretch in this elastic arrangement.

Oklahoman Faces Horse Stealing Count
TULSA, OKLA. (AP) — A hearing was decided if a Tulsa man should be returned to Arkansas to face a charge of stealing $8,000 worth of registered quarter horses yesterday was delayed until Sept. 5.

A fugitive warrant from Batesville, Ark., alleged that Ed Leal, a Tulsa construction worker, took 18 horses and colts from a pasture belonging to George Luster of near Batesville.

League, who has been free with out bond, contended the horses belonged to him and he was only keeping them in Luster's pasture.

Board Postpones Locating School
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The suspense over where the first vocational-technical school will be located in Arkansas has been extended to Sept. 9.

The state board of education planned to select the site of the first of six schools yesterday, but declined to vote on the matter when three of the board members were absent.

Education commissioner Arch Ford said the board had intended to vote in either Pine Bluff, Magnolia or Camden for the school, despite a legislative council resolution that the first school be located in Little Rock.

But the board contends that the final selection is up to them. Ford said that a quorum was present at the meeting, but the board members did not want to vote on "anything so important" until the full board could be present.

Charges Syria Smuggling Arms to Others

By MURRAY BROWN

United Press Staff Correspondent

An authoritative Western source said today Syria is smuggling arms to subversive elements in pro-Western Jordan and Lebanon.

"We have definite proof of this," the source said in Istanbul.

The statement came even while U.S. Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson prepared to leave Ankara for Beirut to confer with Lebanese officials on the Syrian crisis.

Henderson, who was urgently dispatched to the Middle East last weekend, said his talks with Turkish leaders and the rulers of pro-Western Jordan and Iraq were "extremely helpful."

While in Beirut, Henderson planned to meet also with other top U.S. diplomats, including members of the embassy staff in Damascus.

Henderson has refused to enter into speculation on his hurry-up mission to the Middle East. It was obvious, however, that the United States and its pro-Western Middle East friends were searching for ways to combat Syria's slow drift into the Soviet orbit.

One Istanbul source said the Syrians were concentrating on stirring up dissatisfied elements among Jordanian army officers, King Hussein already has accused Syria of helping to foment the abortive leftist plot against him last spring.

Both Moscow and Peking, meantime, continued their propaganda campaign against United States "meddling" in the Middle East.

The Soviet government, news-paper Izvestia said Henderson was sent into the Middle East in an attempt to stir strife among the nations there. I said Henderson's mission coincided with the climax of an "unruly American campaign" against the people of Syria.

The Peking People's Daily, of official mouthpiece of the Chinese regime, said "American intrigues" in the Middle East are not aimed at Syria alone "but at all nationalistic forces."

It said the Arab peoples "should unite closely for a common front against foreign aggression to smash the intrigues."

ASC Adds 20 New Faculty Members
JONESBORO (UP) — Dr. Carl Rong, president of Arkansas State College, announced today that the school had employed 20 new faculty members for the fall term.

He said it was the largest number hired at one time in many years, and pointed out it was made possible by increased appropriations by the state Legislature.

Dr. Rong said the new teachers were needed to keep pace with the ever-increasing enrollment, which is expected to top 2,000 this fall.

Only six faculty members quit, and Dr. Rong said most of them were studying for higher degrees. He said also that the smallest number to leave the faculty in several years.

Former Arkansan Still Winning
NEW YORK (AP) — A former Little Rock woman and her partner today counted $20,000 in winnings on the CBS television quiz program, Name That Tune.

Mrs. Kay Harris Connell Korosky of New York, whose mother lives at Arkadelphia, and Dr. Roger Cole of Cambridge, England, won five songs about the sea last night. The pair will try for the $25,000 grand prize next Tuesday night.

THE STORY: Sarah Casement has volunteered to assist the widow of Grant Melville do the painting of his biography. Sarah believes that someone pushed Melville through his studio window, causing him to fall to his death, but no one believes her. Among other applicants for the biography job is Tom Gillespie, who admits being in the vicinity of the studio when Melville came to his death.

CHAPTER V
Gillespie stopped smiling. The hard-bitten lines in his face came back. He took a step nearer to her, the dark eyes probing hers. He said in a low voice, "Who are you, Miss Casement? What are you in this house for?"

"There was no threat in him. He was gentle, as though she were in trouble and he sympathized with her. Sarah had an absurd impulse to tell him the truth. Before she could say anything they were interrupted. The door at the far end of the room opened and Mrs. Melville came rustling toward them talking volubly.

"I do hope I haven't kept you too long, Miss Casement, particularly as I'm so sorry, dreadfully sorry, I really am. I wish I could have two writers, but there — that wouldn't do, would it?"

Gillespie had the job nailed. Mrs. Melville promised to send her a copy of the book when it was finished and Sarah said that would be lovely and left the house, hadn't expected to get the job, but for a while it had seemed as though she might and now she was dejected and cast down. The old man of the sea was still on her shoulders. She had learned little or nothing of importance, hadn't even been able to get a look at the studio and find out whether there was a door in the right wall. She might almost as well have stayed at home.

"Miss Casement —" Gillespie caught up with her at the bottom of the brownstone steps outside and stood on the pavement looking at her appraisingly, as though something about her continued to puzzle him.

Sarah said, "Yes," coolly, and he said, measuring his words, producing them carefully, "I don't want to interfere in what isn't my business but if there's any way in which I can help you — I'll be going through all Grant Melville's stuff, his papers, sketches, notes — I'll be glad to. If —"

"It was then, while he was talking, that it happened. A light voice came sailing through space and Sarah's name was called. 'Sarah . . . Yoo-hoo, Sarah . . .'"

Zita Warren shouldn't have been home, she wasn't to have come back for another couple of weeks. It was Zita who was calling her from the window of her apartment high up on the other side of the street, having vigorously and leaning out, "Wait, Sarah, I'm coming down," she shouted, and the window closed and Zita disappeared.

Sarah was aware of Gillespie's eyes on her keen eyes, with a quick brain behind them. Zita's windows were directly across from Grant Melville's studio and Zita was her friend. Her one desire was to get away from him. She said, "Goodbye Mr. Gillespie — congratulations on the job," and started for the opposite curb through a gap in the traffic.

The two girls met in the lobby of the Seldon Arms. Zita had a cab waiting. She had cut her trip short, had left the ship at Rio and flown home because her mother was ill. She was on her way over to New Jersey to see her and as in a rush.

She got into the cab and drove off and Sarah started to walk north through the rain. Gillespie was nowhere in sight. When she went past the drugstore on the northwest corner of Tenth St. and University Place, Mr. Deinet, the man with the tired hat, was in the doorway lighting a cigarette from a fresh pack.

Later that day, according to her brother-in-law and eventually the police, Zita Warren tried to commit what was nothing less than suicide.

When Sarah reached the Seldon Arms at five minutes of 7 that evening there was a crowd around the entrance and an ambulance was just driving down the street, siren wailing. She didn't at once know that Zita was in the ambulance but she was frightened. A woman enlightened her. The woman said to someone else, "Nahie of Warren, lives on the fourth floor," and the street whirled. An arm came around Sarah steadily and she was through the crowd and in a chair in the lobby. The man who put her there and who was standing over her was Gillespie.

Zita wasn't dead. She had been in some sort of an accident and had been taken to the hospital. Gillespie had been in the house across the street with Mrs. Melville for a consultation and was leaving when the ambulance arrived. He had had a word with the intern.

The elevator came down at that point and Zita's brother-in-law, Andy Middleton, got out of it. He came over to them Zita had a concussion and some smashed ribs. The doctor couldn't say how bad it was likely to be until she had been examined. Andy was shaking and scared — and furious. It was Zita's own fault. Nobody else was to blame.

"She ought to be confined," he said that without looking where she was going she had walked into the path of a 10-ton truck coming along at a fast clip. "If she wants to kill herself I wish she'd do it when she wasn't with me."

Slaughter Does Just That to the White Sox

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The 20-0 White Sox are almost gone and the all-conquering New York Yankees now are 8-1 favorite to beat Milwaukee in the World Series.

With the Yankees a whopping 6 1/2 games ahead and only 27 left to play after their stunning three-game sweep of the Sox, oddsmakers "officially" announced today they no longer are accepting any bets on the Yankees in the American League pennant chase.

As far as they're concerned, the flag chase all but ended when "old pro" Country Slaughter forgot his 41 years and slammed an 11th-inning home run Thursday to give the Yankees a dramatic 2-1 victory at Chicago.

The oddsmakers say today they will now accept only bets against the Yankees, not only them. They'll give you 8-1 odds if you will like the White Sox. The same goes for the Braves vs. everyone else in the National League.

The hard-bitten "money" players took the big game for the Yankees, just as they have so many times in the past. The first Yankee run was a left-field home run in the third inning by ex-Mariner hero Hank Bauer. Earl Torgeson's sacrifice fly in the same frame drove in a Sox run that tied the score but, at last, Slaughter drove into the right field seats in the 11th was the winner.

Tom Sturdivant pitched the first six innings for the Yankees, but Whitey Ford got the win with five brilliant relief innings in which he allowed just one hit. Dick Donovan pitched all the way for the Sox to lose a tough one, giving up eight hits.

The Sox muffed their big chance to win in the last half of the 10th inning. With one out, Ford walked Sherm Lollar and Walt Dropo was safe when Tony Kubek bobbled his grounder. But Ford retired both Bubba Phillips and Donovan on grounders to end the threat.

From here out, the schedule favors the Yankees, too. They play 18 of their remaining games at home, only nine on the road. The White Sox play only eight at home and 20 on the road.

In the only other major league games Thursday, the Cleveland Indians slammed four home runs to trounce the Baltimore Orioles, 13-4, and Tom Brewer of the Boston Red Sox gained his 15th victory of the year, 6-1, over the Detroit Tigers.

Jim Hegan, Rocky Colavito, Al Smith, and Vic Wertz hit homers for the Indians, who started with six runs in the first inning and three in the second to gain a veneer for their thumping by the Orioles a day earlier. Mike Garcia scattered nine hits in bringing to his eighth win.

Brewer allowed the Tigers only six hits. Frank Malone drove in three of the Sox runs and Ted Williams drew four walks. Williams grounded out in his other at-bat and dropped one point of his which will climax on the Third Sunday in September.

Stewardess Board No. 2 of Bee Memorial C. M. E. Church will sponsor a weather roast at the home of Mrs. Lida Lee Mulgrew Saturday night, August 31st. The public is cordially invited to attend.

batting lead over Mickey Mantle of the Yankees. Williams was at .379 and Mantle at .373 after two hits against Chicago.

NOTHING TO IT — Patrick Theines, 73, a retired railway brakeman from California, says "There's no reason to let a little thing like polio get you down." as he relaxes in Joliet, Ill., after walking from San Diego. Theines, stricken with polio in 1906, started walking long distances to strengthen his legs, and figures he's walked 250,000 miles since then. He left San Diego on June 29, and averaged around 45 miles a day. Pat, who is on his way to New York, plans to stop over in Cleveland to give a few hopeful words to a nine-year-old nephew, Lee Funk, also a polio victim. He expects to arrive in New York Sept. 5.

delmont charges against Francis Smith, 52, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Smith was arrested here Tuesday when Sheriff H. R. Delahoyde became suspicious of a story the father told the Red Cross. Smith said he was an Army lieutenant and that his car had burned.

With Smith was a woman he identified as his wife and an eight child, a 10-month-old infant. The other children, ranging in age from 20 months to 12 years, had been left in the motel with only $1.20.

Delahoyde said that Smith, who had sought financial help from the Red Cross, told several different stories.

"The more he talked, the more he lied," Delahoyde said. Finally, the sheriff said, Smith admitted he was the man wanted for leaving the children at the motel.

Smith insisted he planned to return for the children, Delahoyde said. But the sheriff said Smith had told a bus station ticket agent earlier that he planned to go to San Francisco.

Delahoyde said Smith and his woman companion, Mary Jane Styke, 27, also of Fort Wayne, were married early Tuesday in Kahoka, Mo. He said they came here by taxicab.

The U. S. National Guard was named in 1824 for the Garde National. Lafayette was then visiting a regiment of the New York State Militia.

NEW MISSILE TEST VERY SUCCESSFUL

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker said today the 1,500-mile range Jupiter missile, which was test-fired again here Wednesday, has "encountered spectacular success."
Brucker told a news conference in Miami Beach, where he spoke before the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention, that work on the intermediate range Jupiter is "ahead of schedule."
"It has encountered spectacular success," Brucker said. "But beyond that I will not go."
Brucker declined comment on the dispute between the Army and the Air Force over the two intermediate range missiles, the Jupiter and the Thor. The Air Force developed the Thor but so far has not got it off the ground. Attempts to test-fire it here have fizzled.
But the Jupiter zoomed off its launching pad and disappeared into rain-laden clouds here Wednesday afternoon, headed for the tracking stations in the Bahamas and the Caribbean Sea, where its progress was recorded.
Of Russian announcement that the Soviets have successfully test-fired an intercontinental ballistic missile, Brucker said it would not be "becoming for the United States to use any announcement of its progress in ballistics or any other missiles for bargaining purposes."
He said the Russian announcement was timed to coincide with London disarmament conference which they hoped to use "as a political lever and probably bring about the end of the conference."
"Their missile is a research test vehicle," he said. "It is a long, long, long, long time between are search test vehicle and an operational missile."
